Identity sheet

Robust solvability is not a realized procedure

Not part of the anonymized review file. The BJPS FAQ says to delete acknowledgements from the submission and to remove the author's name. This sheet exists so the public repository can say who wrote the draft. Anonymity is not claimed.

Author

Drew Lamarr Arrowood. Affiliation, email, and ORCID: pending confirmation. None are invented.

Funding and competing interests

Not confirmed. They are not written as "none." The review file omits them because the journal instructs authors to delete acknowledgements entirely, not because the facts were checked.

Departure from the self-citation rule

The FAQ says to cite one's own work in the third person under one's name. This review file does not name the author of the public technical note, because the name would identify him. The mathematics is that note's mathematics. The present draft is an alternative adaptation, not an independent study.

Assistance

See Appendix A of the review file. Grok Bot, a Cursor cloud agent, drafted the prose on 8 November 2026. The model version is not recorded. A complete verbatim prompt log is not retained, so the journal's reconstructability standard is only partly met. Human verification is pending.

Submission

No submission has been made. Related drafts are already public, so a different title and a paraphrased abstract were used, as the FAQ asks when work has been posted. That step does not make the author anonymous.